District Performance Index (DPI)

A District Performance Index (DPI) is the average performance of students in a subject area (i.e., ELA, Mathematics or Science) on the state summative assessments. The DPI ranges from 0-100. A DPI is reported for all students tested in a district and for students in each individual student group. Connecticut's ultimate target for a DPI is 75.

Next Generation Accountability Results

Connecticut's Next Generation Accountability System is a broad set of 12 indicators that help tell the story of how well a district/school is preparing its students for success in college, careers, and life. It moves beyond test scores and graduation rates to provide a more holistic, multifactor perspective of district and school performance.

Narratives

School District Improvement Plans and Parental Outreach Activities

North Haven Public Schools' Vision of the Graduate was completed this school year.

Multiple stakeholders were involved in its creation and it will become the foundation of the district's curricular work.

NHPS' English Learner Department continues to grow. The district hired two additional teachers and created an EL Department Coordinator to address the needs of students from K-12. The department has held numerous events to provide families with information and activities to support their students.

The district has also increased the number of mental health supports throughout each level. This support comes in the form of additional counselors as well as the establishment of a community-based mental health clinic at the elementary and secondary levels.

NHPS continually improves the effectiveness of all district programs with a focus on special education. Our programs at the preschool level up through the transitional program continue to expand their offerings to better meet the needs of the whole child. Regular and special education teachers collaborate across grade-levels and content areas in order to maintain rigor and meet the needs of all learners.

Efforts to Reduce Racial, Ethnic and Economic Isolation

The District-wide Diversity and Inclusion Facilitator has held professional learning sessions with teachers and administrators around equity and social-emotional learning. District Coordinators have also collaborated with the D/I Facilitator to review curriculum. In addition, the administrative team has participated in equity training with the State Education Resource Center (SERC).

NHPS has also received a grant from ACES to utilize for the recruitment of minority educators. The district participated also participated in a minority recruitment fair in May.

North Haven Public Schools participate in the Open Choice Program and currently have a number of students who reside in New Haven attending district schools. We also send high school students to the Educational Center for the Arts (ECA) at ACES.

During the year, the district has utilized multiple resources and organizations to support and facilitate training sessions around diversity for our students and staff. Social emotional learning is a focus at all grade levels and lessons are beginning to be imbedded into the curriculum which incorporate self management, self awareness, social awareness, responsible decision making and relationship skills.

Equitable Allocation of Resources among District Schools

School resources are distributed in such a way that each building receives as much of what they request each year, as possible. As a result, at the elementary level, spending for the core instructional programs differ primarily because of differences in each schools' enrollment. All other purchases at the elementary, middle and high school levels are the result of specific student needs as identified through our special education and intervention teachers, specialists and coaches. Finally, every effort is made to provide schools with any requested resources that align with either the school or district improvement plans.
